Election/Restrictions

This application contains claims directed to more than one species of the generic invention. These species are deemed to lack unity of invention because they are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

The species are as follows:

Species I: Fig. 2, measurement window controlled by trigger generated regularly by uninterrupted magnet bar on a bucket;

Species II: Fig. 4, measurement window controlled by trigger generated regularly by magnet on the shaft of the bucket roller, detected by a hall sensor.

Applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single species to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. The reply must also identify the claims readable on the elected species, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered non-responsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

The claims are deemed to correspond to the species listed above in the following manner:

Species I: Claims 21-32 and 47;

Species II: Claims 33-46 and 48-51.

The following claim(s) are generic: None.

The species listed above do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, the species lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons: In species I, the trigger signal for controlling the measurement window is generated on each revolution of the bucket roller by an uninterrupted magnet bar on a bucket. In species II, the trigger signal for controlling the measurement window is generated on each revolution of the bucket roller by a magnet located on the shaft of the bucket roller, which is sensed by a hall sensor. Thus species I and species II lack the same technical features since they implement different methods for controlling the time at which the toner concentration is measured.

The following preliminary matters are hereby noted:

Figures 2 and 3 contain words which are not in English. Substitute drawings with the English equivalents are requested.

In the substitute specification (page 9, lines 8-29), the term "t(Excavator)" (four occurrences) is used with respect to fig. 4, however no such term is found in fig. 4. It is not clear if "t(Excavator)" is equivalent to "tBagger" of fig. 4.

Furthermore, "tHall" of fig. 4 is not described in the specification.
